Head of College Welcome

> My most significant lesson has been that if you trust someone and they know that you trust them, you amplify and enhance their competency.

A college year differs from its host university's academic year. A college year has its own rhythms - its own highs, lows and moments of celebration and reflection.

Of course, all this action functions in and around the bigger picture of the host university's own academic calendar and the imperatives of the bigger calendar year - here in Australia, New Year, Easter, Melbourne Cup and Christmas.

2026 has been my St Albert's "fresher year".

The rhythm of the year – O Week, First Year Sport, Parents' Ball, Albies 'n Friends Raceday, Academic Dinners, Mates' Ball, Valedicts' Lunch and Presentation Dinners and getting to know our residents and their aspirations for this place have made the year special for me. It's been a pleasure to get a window on the lives of the young men and women who call Albies home and to see the extent of their involvement not just in their college community, but in the UNE story and the Armidale story, more broadly.

Topping this experience has been working with our young people...people who have taught me important lessons about trust and competency. My most significant lesson has been that if you trust someone and they know that you trust them, you amplify and enhance their competency. They don't want to let you down. They want to achieve and shine and be the best version of themselves because in them, you have trusted.

Among other successes, I'm thinking about the 2026 Mates' Ball, an event that soaked up a huge number of resources and an event that delivered in spades for our community. All our guests registered. All our guests fed and watered. And all our guests well behaved. A tribute to the organisers and lesson in the significance of trust.

I'm also thinking of an evening at a local hotel when my daughter, Mia and I, arrived to have an evening meal. It so happened that perhaps as many as forty St Albert's current residents were also there that night. It was lovely to have as many as perhaps fifteen Albies' residents visit our table to chat with us. I walked out of there taller for Mia having seen firsthand how wonderful our community truly is.
Thank you, St Albert's, for what has been a thoroughly enjoyable fresher year. I look forward to the rhythms of 2027 and to our achieving even greater victories.

Albies Charity Committee Makes A Lasting Impact

At St Albert's College, community and service go hand in hand, and our 2026 charity initiatives showcased the overwhelming generosity of our residents, staff, alumni, and families. The annual Albies' Golf Day set a strong tone for the year, bringing together over 60 competitors and more than 150 spectators for a high-energy day of sport and fundraising. Generosity continued at the Parents' Ball, where a high-stakes auction raised over $10,000 thanks to item donations from our community, while the Mates' Ball jersey auction delivered further support through the ongoing partnership with the Rugby Club.

Connection took centre stage at the Albies' Long Lunch, where 240 residents, staff, and friends gathered to hear Chris Jordan from Farm Angels speak on the vital importance of supporting rural communities. Alongside these signature events, the College introduced a new daily initiative—can and bottle collection points around campus—turning everyday recycling into a constant stream of charitable support. From the fairway to the ballroom, the collective effort of the Albies' family throughout 2026 continues to make a lasting, tangible impact.

Trimester Two Academic Dinner

In Honour of Outstanding Academic Achievement

With the academic year back in full swing, the St Albert's community suited up for the second Academic Dinner of the year. Honouring the outstanding achievements of Trimester One, residents filled the dining hall in sharp formal attire.

The evening opened on a historic note with Indigenous Elder Steve Widders performing the College's first Welcome to Country. Head of College, Steve Foley then delivered an insightful update on current college developments and plans, before introducing the keynote speaker, technology strategist and Albies' new Marketing and Development Manager, Joe Millward. Joe shared practical insights on innovation, career paths, and adaptability, encouraging students to stay curious across all aspects of their university journey.

The program then shifted to honouring top academic performers, with awards presented by Jonathan Grace, Emma Waters, and Nina Gibson. Celebrations spanned High Distinction and Distinction certificate recipients, alongside major honours including the Knight's Prize, the Senior Common Room Prize, the Martha Hallinan Prize, and the Sarah Heagney Memorial Scholarship.

Following the formal ceremony, special guests and student leaders gathered in the Senior Common Room for post-dinner drinks, while students made their way into downtown Armidale to finish off a great evening together.

Oliver Scarborough: A Place for Everyone

> ... I hope I have left a mark showing that no matter who you are or where you're from, the connections and friends made at college will be with you for the rest of your life.

How have your personal values shifted since your very first week at Albies?

Since my start at Albies in 2023, my personal values have not so much shifted, rather they have become more defined, I've realised that friendship and family can sometimes seem far away but both are reachable with just a phone call. My personal mental health and fitness levels have also been very important to my values which was enhanced at College

What did living in a close-knit community like Albies teach you about yourself?

That the ability to find friends is much easier than it was in school. Albies, for the first month-ish, wakes up every fresher bloke in the morning to run the triangle, a 3km run circuit, this is to get us ready for fresher footy and the other fresher sports. In doing so everyone runs together as a group, there is no one left behind and it creates a great sense of camaraderie amongst the freshers. In the end it taught me that even if I don't know someone it was very easy to become friends with them quickly.

Which daily habit or boundary was most effective in keeping you grounded?

It took me a little while to get into it properly but going to the gym and working out or even going to play one of the club sports always made me feel better.

How did your approach to making genuine friends evolve during your time here?

I am not one to enjoy the spotlight of it all so I would look around the pub and if I saw someone sitting by themselves I would go over and start a conversation, turns out this can be done at any year for anyone at all. The pub was a place where people would always have a chance to chat especially if you happened to sit down at the table with them. The other effect of College that helped me make friends in later years, is how the Albies dining hall etiquette is to have a table filled even if you're with your mates then you join the table that has enough spaces on it and you start a conversation with everyone there. It was a great way to meet people without the need for alcohol.

What lasting impact or mark do you hope to leave on the Albies community?

As a fourth year RA and the leader of the Futsal Club for Albies, I hope to have left a mark showing that no matter who you are or where you're from, the connections and friends made at College will be with you for the rest of your life. I'd like to think that now the student body is heard more by the college itself with the addition of our new CEO, Steve Foley, who has worked with our Senior Leadership Team, meticulously over the year to make it all more enjoyable for the entire student body and outside community.

Student Reflection

Emma Thompson: Finding My Place

> ... I hope the friendships I've made and the people I've connected with continue after College. Albies has been a massive part of my life, so I'd like to think I've left a little of myself here as well.

How have your personal values shifted since your very first week at Albies?

When I first came to Albies, I think I cared a lot more about fitting in and what other people thought of me. Over time, I've become a lot more independent and comfortable being myself. I've learnt that the people you surround yourself with and the relationships you build matter a lot more than trying to impress everyone.

What was a tough hurdle you faced here, and how did you overcome it?

One of my biggest hurdles was probably balancing everything—uni, work, sport, friendships and everything else that comes with college. There were definitely times where I felt overwhelmed or doubted whether I was capable of doing everything. I got through it by just dealing with things one at a time, asking for help when I needed it and realising that one bad week or setback didn't mean everything was falling apart.

What advice would you give a new student going through a similar struggle?

Don't convince yourself that everyone else has everything figured out, because they definitely don't. Ask for help before things pile up, and don't let one bad mark, awkward moment or rough week define your whole college experience. Most things that feel massive at the time really aren't that important a few months later.

What was something you panicked about in O-Week that turned out to be no big deal?

Probably whether I was going to find my people and fit in. During O-Week it feels like you need to make your best friends immediately, but you really don't. Friendships change so much throughout college, and some of the people you become closest with aren't necessarily the people you met on day one.

What single piece of practical wisdom would you leave on a sticky note for a new resident?

Say yes to things, but learn when to say no. College goes ridiculously quickly, so get involved and make the most of it, but don't feel like you have to do absolutely everything just because everyone else is.

What lasting impact or mark do you hope to leave on the Albies community?

I'd like to think I contributed to making Albies a fun and welcoming place and that I was someone people could have a laugh with but also rely on when they needed me. More than anything, I hope the friendships I've made and the people I've connected with continue after college. Albies has been a massive part of my life, so I'd like to think I've left a little bit of myself here as well.

A Celebration of Pride, Purpose & Legacy

St Albert's College Valedictory 2026

On Thursday, 10th September, the St Albert's College community gathered to honour our graduating Valedictorians and celebrate their extraordinary contributions over their years at Albies. The Valedictory Ceremony brought together residents and staff to acknowledge academic achievement, leadership, and the enduring collegiate spirit that defines our community.

The proceedings opened with the Prayer & Valedicts Blessing delivered by Bishop Murphy, providing a meaningful and reflective beginning to the ceremony as our graduating cohort prepared to transition beyond university life.

A key highlight of the event was the Special Guest Speaker Address delivered by Kim Lawrence, CEO of UNELife, who shared valuable perspectives with our outgoing residents. Following the guest address, the stage was set for one of the afternoon's most memorable moments: the Valedicts' Address, presented by Molly Salisbury and Hunter Moore. Their inspiring speech captured the essence of the Albies' experience—reflecting on shared challenges, lifelong friendships, and the deep connection formed during their time at the College.

In a deeply poignant moment during the ceremony, Anna Ward delivered a moving tribute to fellow student Hannah Campbell, who tragically passed away earlier in the week on Monday. Anna's heartfelt words brought the room together in shared remembrance, honouring Hannah's legacy, warmth, and lasting impact on the college community.

Following the student responses, the ceremony transitioned to the presentation of major awards, recognizing individuals who exemplified outstanding leadership, collegiality, and commitment:

Collegian of the Year
Angus Brown

Martha Hallinan Prize
Holly Clemson

Female Fresher of the Year
Clare Kennedy

Male Fresher of the Year
Charlie Nolan

Supporter of the Year

To close out the formal proceedings on a high note, Nina Gibson and Lucy Crowley brought the community together with a wonderful singing performance. Afterward, students headed outside to enjoy drinks and canapes in the afternoon sun, raising a toast to the future.

To our graduating Class of 2026: thank you for your leadership, your dedication, and the indelible mark you have left on St Albert's College. As you step into your next chapters, remember that you carry the Albies' tradition with you.

Chaplaincy Update

Meditating Upon Our Dominican Foundations

Following commencement Mass at the Cathedral celebrated by Bishop Murphy in Trimester one, and a successful year in student studies and College life, St. Albert's College has been more recently meditating upon its Dominican foundations and seen a need.

What is at the centre of the entire Faith life at Albies? Well, you would think in the chapel. You're right! Jesus Christ present in the Blessed Sacrament in the tabernacle. That being the case, we've been working on how we can more greatly dignify and show thanks to our longest tenant, our only Perpetual Resident Who has been boarding since 1969.

With great thanks to Jared and the maintenance crew, we've been able to form a more robust, edifying and recognisable holy space, with the help of some hidden finds in the chapel and sacristy. A noteworthy mention: a silver & crystal flagon donated in 1985 by the Campbell-Hardwick family now being utilised for the storing of holy water.

We found a church gong but unfortunately no striker to accompany it. Not to worry, with the turnaround of only a day, a talented member of the Cathedral parish used a piece of timber left over from an altar rail and hand-carved a striker, free of charge, as a donation to the College, just in time for its use at Holy Mass the following day. In your charity, please pray for Todd Sargeant.

The Most Reverend Bishop Murphy donated a large ornate altar crucifix which now presides above the tabernacle. The large wooden crucifix has its own devotional section in the chapel now, perpendicular to a well-received devotional candle section for Our Lady's mosaic image.

Since these renovations in recent months, we've held a couple of evening Masses with thanks to Fr. Chandler, Administrator of the Cathedral, offering his time. The last Mass being offered for the souls of past student and recently deceased, Hannah Campbell and her father, Ian. A grateful thank you to Nina Gibson, Bobby (Robert) Boyd and Damian Abou-Antoun for assisting as Readers at Mass.

Most recently, Fr Chandler ran a Holy Hour with Exposition of the Blessed Sacrament for students leading into exams, with time for private prayer, a homily about St Pier Giorgio Frassati, a decade of the rosary, devotional candles and Benediction.

One student commented the following week, "It was the most relaxing thing I've done all year."

In your charity, please pray for our students past, present and future.

ICMJ National Conference & Competition

Emily Mailler & Emma Wilkinson Make the Cut

UNE students and St Albert's residents, Emily Mailler and Emma Wilkinson have been selected for Australia's 2027 national meat judging team.

Early next year, the pair will undertake a series of red meat industry tours through Texas, Colorado, Wyoming, Kansas, and Oklahoma, while competing in two major US meat judging events.

Emily, a Bachelor of Rural Science student, noted the significance of the shared opportunity.

"Emma and I have done all of our ICMJ training together, so it's pretty special to now have the chance to do this together too," said Emily. "ICMJ has been such a big part of my learning over the past year and I'm really looking forward to building on my current experience and gaining new insights and practical knowledge of the red meat industry."

Pursuing a Bachelor of Agribusiness, Emma expressed similar enthusiasm for the tour.

"I'm really looking forward to learning more about the American red meat industry and gaining valuable insights and experiences throughout the tour," she said.

Their selection follows a multi-stage evaluation that commenced at the ICMJ National Conference and Competition in Wagga Wagga in July, concluding on Wednesday during the Intensive Industry Education and Development Week in south-east Queensland.

Making Waves

Albies Water Polo Hits the Pool in 2026

Albies' water polo begun this year with an interesting start. There were many people recruited to play, then the next day they realised we were not joking, we actually have a water polo team at Albies. Our team competed in the UNE Social Water Polo Competition on Monday nights at the UNE pool in Trimester 2. This season saw some highly successful games and some not so successful games, however, through every game we showed up, had a crack and enjoyed ourselves. Congrats to this years team, winning our last game of the season which saw us finish third!

This season has been so much fun, with many laughs, and it has been amazing to see how far everyone's skills have come over the season and the improvement we have made as a team. We also had a lot of students help fill in for a game or two which was a great way to see water polo being part of the Albies' community and introduce the game to people who had never played before. We would like to say a huge thank you to the spectators who have shown up week after week to support the team, which has really helped build up the community around the team.

Albies' involvement in the UNE water polo competition, especially in volunteering to ensure that each Monday runs smoothly, has shown the UNE sporting community how involved Albies is in the broader community. This season has been filled with lots of laughs, cheers and goals while also improvement across the board and I hope to see everyone back in the pool next season.

Women's Hockey Season Review

The St Albert's College Women's Hockey Team put together a strong campaign this season, highlighted by impressive performances, great squad camaraderie, and a wonderful culture both on and off the field.

The team kicked off the season with an extra boost of motivation thanks to a special pep talk video sent to our fresher players by current Hockeyroos player Grace Young.

After securing several good wins throughout the year, the team's shared connection and support for one another drove continuous growth across the entire season.

On Saturday 19 September, the College held the Albies Women in Sport Awards, where the hockey award winners were announced.

Massive thank you to our President, Bridget Whittaker and Vice President Kate Morris for all that you have done for the club.

Beyond the scoreboard, the success of the 2026 season was built on individual brilliance and a vibrant club spirit. We extend our warmest congratulations to this year's major award recipients.

St Albert's Rugby Celebrates Memorable 2026 Season

The 2026 campaign for St Albert's College Rugby Club showcased true college pride, competing with fire on the field and standing together off it.

From pre-season work to the New England Rugby Union finals, the club showed exceptional strength across all grades. While grand final results didn't go our way, every team played with undeniable Albies' spirit.

Our women's squad delivered another powerful campaign of rapid growth, proving once again why they remain a vital pillar of College rugby.

Grand Final weekend carried significance far beyond the scoreboard. Alongside our netballers, players observed a minute's silence and wore black armbands to honour the tragic loss of Hannah and Ian Campbell. Hannah's endless support embodied the Albies' spirit, and playing in their memory united the entire club in strength and purpose.

The season culminated at Presentation Night, celebrating the players, coaches, supporters, sponsors, and the 2026 Rugby Committee who made the year possible.

Connecting Tomorrow's Leaders

A Successful Careers Fair & Industry Dinner!

July marked two of the biggest highlights on our annual calendar, bringing UNE students and peak agriculture representatives together for a day of opportunity and networking.

The festivities kicked off at Lazenby Hall with the annual Careers Fair, where students explored stalls and spoke directly with representatives from over 50 agribusiness companies, gaining invaluable access to industry leaders and graduate pathways.

As the Careers Fair wrapped up, attention turned to the Armidale Bowling Club for the Industry Dinner. Guests enjoyed a two-course meal, live entertainment, and an insightful panel discussion from seasoned professionals, MC'd by Katie Nash. The relaxed setting gave students the chance to sit, dine, and build stronger connections with the companies they'd met earlier in the day.

Executing events of this scale takes immense dedication, and our 15-member student committee couldn't be happier with the outcome. Albies had a strong presence on the team, with Molly Spencer as Vice-Chairperson, myself as Treasurer, Georgie Cronin on the Industry Dinner Subcommittee, and Max Christie alongside Georgia Minato on the Careers Fair Subcommittee.

The Committee is incredibly grateful to all our attendees and sponsors for making the day such a resounding success. As we now move into the handover process, we're looking forward to welcoming even more Albies' students on to the Farming Futures Committee in the year ahead.
